בָּרוּךְ אַתָּה יְיָ אֱלֹהֵינוּ מֶלֶךְ/רוּחַ הָעוֹלָם אֲשֶׁר קִדְּשָׁנוּ בְּמִצְוֹתָיו, וְצִוָּנוּ לְהִתְעַטֵּף בַּצִּיצִת.

As I wrap myself in the talit, I am reminded of generations past. Of my foremothers who were not allowed to wrap themselves. Of my ancestors who had to hide their Jewishness. I am honored to carry on the tradition of being hugged by our faith.

I bless the night that nourished my heart
To set the ghosts of longing free
Into the flow and figure of dream
That went to harvest from the dark Bread for the hunger no one sees

All that is eternal in me
Welcomes the wonder of this day
The field of brightness it creates Offering time for each thing
To arise and illuminate

I place on the alter of dawn
The quiet loyalty of breath
The tent of thought where I shelter Waves of desire I am shore to
And all beauty drawn to the eye

May my mind come alive today
To the invisible geography
That invites me to new frontiers
To break the dead shell of yesterdays
To risk being disturbed and changed

May I have the courage today
To live the life that I would love
To postpone my dream no longer
But do at last what I came here for
And waste my heart on fear no more

מַה טֹּבוּ אׇהָלֶיךָ יַעֲקֹב מִשְׁכְּנֹתֶיךָ יִשְׂרָאֵל.

How good and how pleasant
it is that all of us dwell together

May the door of this synagogue be wide enough to receive all who hunger for love, all who are lonely for fellowship.

May it welcome all who have cares to unburden, thanks to express, hopes to nurture.

May the door of this synagogue be narrow enough to shut out pettiness and pride, envy and enmity.

May its threshold be no stumbling block to young or straying feet.

May it be too high to admit complacency, selfishness, and harshness.

May this synagogue be, for all who enter,
the doorway to a richer and more meaningful life.

Waking up this morning, I smile
Twenty-four brand new hours are before me.
I vow to live fully in each moment and to look at all beings with eyes of compassion.

Blessed are You, Eternal our God, Source of the universe, who has made our bodies with wisdom, combining veins, arteries, and vital organs into a finely balanced network. Wondrous Fashioner and Sustainer of life, Source of our health and our strength, we give You thanks and praise. Talmud Berachot 60b

אֱלֹהַי, נְשָׁמָה שֶׁנָּתַתָּ בִּי
טְהוֹרָה הִיא.
אַתָּה בְרָאתָהּ, אַתָּה יְצַרְתָּהּ,
אַתָּה נְפַחְתָּהּ בִּי,
וְאַתָּה מְשַׁמְּרָהּ בְּקִרְבִּי.
כָּל זְמַן שֶׁהַנְּשָׁמָה בְּקִרְבִּי,
מוֹדֶה / מוֹדָה אֲנִי לְפָנֶיךָ, יְיָ אֱלֹהַי
וֵאלֹהֵי אֲבוֹתַי וְאִמּוֹתַי, רִבּוֹן כָּל הַמַּעֲשִׂים,
אֲדוֹן כָּל הַנְּשָׁמוֹת.
בָּרוּךְ אַתָּה, יְיָ,
אֲשֶׁר בְּיָדוֹ נֶפֶשׁ כָּל חַי
וְרוּחַ כָּל בְּשַׂר אִישׁ.

Tz'dakah is really just another form of T'shuvah — changing, returning, repenting.
It serves as a reminder of who we are,
in essence, human beings with awesome power to act, move, make changes in the world.
Tz'dakah allows us to re-establish our balance, and our sense of meaning and value.
The good will of good people — can bring about great changes in the world, and these changes can be far more dazzling and extensive than we would normally think possible.
In that sense there is something mysterious and magical, about the extent of what Tz'dakah, giving of our resources in a righteous way, can achieve.
But the actual doing of the mitzvah is the simplest of simple things:
we just do it, and marvelous things happen.

We pray to end war;
and we have already been given the humanity,
to find peace within ourselves and with our neighbors,
If only we use it.
We pray to end starvation;
and we have already been given the resources with which to feed the whole world, if we would only use them them fairly.
We pray to root out prejudice; and we have already been given eyes with which to see the good in all people, if we would only use them wisely.
We pray to end despair;
and we have already been given the power to give hope and support to the oppressed, if we would only use it justly.
We pray to end disease;
and we have already been given great minds with which to search out cures and healings, if only we would use them constructively.
Therefore. we pray for strength, determination, and wisdom, and the will to act on our prayers.

Loving life and its mysterious source with all our heart and all our spirit,
all our senses and strength,
we take upon ourselves and into ourselves
these promises:
to care for the earth
and those who live upon it, to pursue justice and peace,
to love kindness and compassion.
We will teach this to our children throughout the passage of the days we dwell in our homes and as we go on our journeys, from the time we rise
until we fall asleep.
And may our actions be faithful to our words that our children's children may live to know:

Truth and kindness have embraced,
peace and justice have kissed and are one.

What power compares to the spirit of freedom?
What can match the majesty of a people breaking their chains?
Inspiring our highest praises, bringing marvels to light.

As we head into the meat of our ceremony, the Amidah, I would like to call attention to something. This blessing begins by honoring our patriarchs and matriarchs. Back when my parents were kids, the matriarchs were not included. The language of our service evolves and changes, adding in more egalitarian English language without changing the Hebrew at times, but also adding in additional prayers as we deem them important. Another addition is the mishebarech, which we add in to add prayers and thoughts of healing for those in need (spoiler alert, it's coming later).

Growing up, I have had a rather odd Jewish learning experience. I spent my preschool years at two Jewish preschools, ultimately graduating here at Temple Beth David. I have gone to, now, four different religious schools. I have learned and grown as a Jewish person, and now as a Jewish adult, I will be incorporating things into my daily life that make sense to me as a B'nai Mitzvah. One of those things is the glaring lack of focus on two of our Matriarchs – Bilhah and Zilpah. These women birthed 4 children, two were born to Bilhah - Dan and Naphtali, and two were born to Zilpah - Gad and Asher. To understand that Jews have history with 12 tribes and to blatantly ignore the contributions of these two women would mean that we only recognize 8 tribes, unless we choose to look at this through the lens of the Handmaid's Tale.

Thus, I would request that today, the day in which I celebrate becoming an adult within the Jewish community, we honor Bilhah and Zilpah's contribution to our heritage and include them right after Rachel and Leah, where they belong.

Please rise.

אֲדֹנָי, שְׂפָתַי תִּפְתָּח,
וּפִי יַגִּיד תְּהִלָּתֶךָ.

ADONAI, open up my lips,
that my mouth may declare Your praise.

The generations of Israelites observed the Sabbath. Every seven days.
Year in and year out. Century in, century out. Millennium in, millennium out.
Every seven days back, back, back ... Each generation taught their children:
This is freedom. This is peace. This is a taste of what the world should be.
This day of rest is yours. A gift from on high, a gift from the generations.
Teach it to the whole planet.
Tell them weekend time is worth fighting for and then always worth its celebration.
It is the time that the soul requires. A day to love yourself; a day to love each other;
a day to sing and dance; a day to remember; a day to take notice.
A day that is not time off, but time on.
It is the great citadel of time. The holiest of all days.
Blessed be the source of all our powers which summons us to hallow a day of rest.

וְשָׁמְרוּ בְנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל אֶת הַשַּׁבָּת לַעֲשׂוֹת אֶת הַשַּׁבָּת לְדֹרֹתָם

Where has this week vanished?
Is it lost for ever?
Will I ever recover anything from it?
The joy of life, the unexpected victory,
the realized hope, the task accomplished?
Will I ever be able to banish the memory of pain,
the sting of defeat, the heaviness of boredom?
On this day let me keep for a while what must drift away.
On this day let me be free of the burdens that must return.
On this day, Shabbat, abide.
Help me to withdraw for a while from the flight of time.
Contain the retreat of the hours and days from the grasp of frantic life.
Let me learn to pause, if only for this day.
Let me find peace on this day.
Let me enter into a quiet world this day.
On this day, Shabbat, abide

PEACE

Thanksgiving

For the expanding grandeur of Creation, worlds known and unknown, galaxies beyond galaxies, filling us with awe and challenging our imaginations, Modim anachnu lach. (We thankfully acknowledge you)
For this fragile planet earth, its times and tides,
its sunsets and seasons,
Modim anachnu lach.
For the joy of human life, its wonders and surprises,
its hopes and achievements,
Modim anachnu lach.
For human community, our common past and future hope, our oneness transcending all separation, our capacity to work for peace and justice in the midst of hostility and oppression,

Modim anachnu lach.
For high hopes and noble causes, for faith without fanaticism, for understanding of views not shared,
Modim anachnu lach.
For all who have labored and suffered for a fairer world, who have lived so that others might live in dignity and freedom,
Modim anachnu lach.
For human liberties and sacred rites:
for opportunities to change and grow, to affirm and choose,
Modim anachnu lach.
We pray that we may live not by our fears but by our hopes,
not by our words but by our deeds.
Blessed are You, Adonai, Your Name is Goodness, and You are worthy of thanksgiving.

בָּרוּךְ אַתָּה, יְיָ, הַטּוֹב שִׁמְךָ וּלְךָ נָאֶה לְהוֹדוֹת.

Baruch atah, Adonai, hatov shimcha ul'cha na-eh l'hodot.

Option 2
This is my quiet time.
I do not speak, because the voice is within me.
This is my quiet time.
I do not walk, because the earth is all within me.
This is my quiet time.
I rest with all of nature.
This is Shabbat.
